

The Middle Ages paved the way for modern science. Go through the exhibition and listen carefully to your audioguide. If you find the answers to the following questions, you will know what we can see when stars die.

- 1) Who was killed by the natives at the equator?
- 2) How many moons of Jupiter did Galileo see?
- 3) What did Copernicus see with his telescope?
- 4) What did people think was running through our veins before they knew about blood?
- 5) Which typical side-dish wasn't known until the end of the Middle-Ages?

Erasmus+

